

[Insert title of invention]An Internet System for Speedy Delivery of a Greeting Card and Gift

Abstract

The current invention is a greeting cards Internet service. It is a method and process that is an electronic greeting card service that utilizes the distributed access afforded by the Internet or local area networks (LANs) to enable the sending of a greeting card or cards with a cashier's check as a gift in a single order.